I would like a more complete statement of what Home Repair / Appalachia Service Project is about.

SJ HRM / ASP takes a group of volunteers, teens, young adults and adults to Appalachia for one week of the summer. We are supported by St. Johns Roman Catholic Church and St. Johns United. We work to make homes warmer, safer and drier. The ASP program was the creation of a Methodist minister's vision to connect the energy and skill of young people with folks living in Appalachia with housing needs. While ASP began as a Christian ministry and is still supported in many ways by Christian churches, ASP has reached out with arms wide open to welcome folks from all walks of life. Religion is not considered when folks apply for help or apply to be helpers. It is the ASP philosophy that we are all siblings together, and together we solve problems, share gifts, learn new skills, and walk our journeys through both blessed times and challenges.

As a parent of a high school student, what are some benefits to the teens in participating on the Home Repair / Appalachian Service Project?

High Schoolers meet new friends, learn the value of service, develop social and leadership skills, learn about people who live differently than they do, “get out of their comfort zone” in a supportive environment and have experiences that they often write about in essays for college admission.
